Culture and Identity

National Webinar On Culture and Identity (25th September 2020, 2:00pm IST via GMeet)

Organized by:
Department of English, Govt. Johnson College,
Mizoram, India
Email:englisdeptgjc@gmail.com

Cultural Studies represent the study of different cogency from which the whole of humankind construct their daily lives/identity. The aspects studied in this area involve a variety of cultural expressions such as upstream media, literature, and art, amongst others. The theory on cultural studies is undeniably stimulating, more so when one considers the aspects regarding our society that it brings into perspective. Cultural studies gives a new meaning into life by demonstrating that life cannot only be determined by traditional criterion such as economics or politics but rather by a multifarious approach. This webinar attempts to create a platform where cultural concepts like how reality and identity are based upon social construction; how beliefs are based upon the perception of reality; how society is marked by the struggle for power and how cultural codes create identities for the community of a particular society.

One Day Webinar on "Disentangling the Relationship between Gender and Work Family Conflict : A new paradigm for the 21st Century"

Disentangling the Relationship between Gender and Work–Family Conflict:
A New Paradigm for the 21st Century
(21st September, 2020; 2:00PM IST)

Organised by:

It is broadly acknowledged that literature is the reflection of the society. Just as literature reflects the insights and attitudes of the society, it also portrays human life through characters either by their words or their deeds thus conveying message for the purpose of instruction, information and delight. Literature no doubt witnesses the evolution of women through ages. The changing role of women in literature from the past to present indicates the evolution of women and women empowerment. In modern literature emphasis has been placed on themes that focus on women's quest for self identity and for equality in all spheres of life. The unique voice of female minorities is a common theme in many coming of age novels that allows each writer to establish a separate identity for their characters and themselves. Women's roles in literature have evolved throughout history and have led women to develop into strong independent roles. Modern literature serves as an outlet and sounding board for women's rights and feminist pioneers.

Earlier women were under the shadow of a husband or a father, but now they have established their own identity and are independent. In the present scenario women are deemed as the bread winners in the family. The role of women in today's world has changed significantly and for the better. Women are now self-sufficient, well aware and financially independent. They have attained immense success in every field, whether it is sports, politics or academics. With the encouragement of co-education, women are now marching side by side with men, in every walk of life. They have established themselves socially, politically and economically in almost every field. While women are more educated and more employed than ever, they are still taking on most of the household and familial duties. As such, the conflict between work obligations and family responsibilities has become more and more strenuous for millions of families worldwide. Consequently, it is of vital importance to identify the major causes and remedies of work-life conflict which the working women face in the present situation.

This Webinar aims to provide a platform where literature witnesses how the 21st Century has brought a new hope in terms of empowering women and strategies to overcome the work–family conflict that women face in the current scenario.

The world has witnessed a multi-dimensional paradigm shift post Covid-19. The pre -Covid-19 notions of normalcy that were deemed as socially acceptable have lost their significance. Each society is on the quest towards identifying new notions of normalcy that will be beneficial for the individual and the society. In the quest towards seeking and locating the new code for normalcy, the socio-psychological aspects that determine and drive the society are elements that cannot be ignored nor forgotten. Each society is unique; whose uniqueness is defined by the deep rooted identity and social behaviour which is traced across generations. The search for "new normalcy post Covid-19" poses many issues and challenges as a unified code cannot be adopted for every society. This Webinar aims to throw light on the major aspects that define a society, while highlighting the probable/visible issues or hurdles that a society (Mizo society in particular) is or will face in the quest towards establishing a new social code for normalcy.
